

More and more highly educated personnel should be prepared to be active on a flexible labor market and take additional courses to stay up to date with most recent scientific knowledge and management tools. Agrimba focuses on the development of the idea of lifelong learning in the bio-economy and the exchange of ideas between professionals and academics.

Agrimba is the Network for the MBA in Life Sciences. The Network provides inputs for its programs and takes care of international accreditation. It is a standing committee of ICA. It organizes a bi-annual congress and publishes its own journal: Apstract.

More information about Agrimba: www.ica-agrimba.eu

More information about Apstract: www.apstract.net

